6. The fuel dump on the northern edge of the Neuruppin airfield about 1 km west of Wittstocker Allee, was guarded by about 40 soldiers, who were quartered in a low brick building there. The four watchtowers of the dump were occupied by guards. There was no fence around the installation, which consisted of several low brick buildings and a wooden building, the contents of which could not be determined. Trucks were seen moving into the dump. **

- 25X1A * ~~Comment.~~ The occupation of the barracks installations remained constant since the last report of 4 January 1951 by the same source.

- 25X1A In the present report, source failed to mention the Fridericus Kaserne which, according to previous reports, allegedly quarters 5,000 troops.

- 25X1A ** ~~Comment.~~ Two fuel dumps are known to be located at the Neuruppin airfield, one in the northeastern section and the other on the southwestern border of the field. 25X1A
A rough sketch drawn by source, but not forwarded, indicated that the present report refers to the dump in the northeastern section of the field.
